

July 9, 2009

Sho-Ban News

NWIAC set for August 5-7

POCATELLO — The Northwest Intertribal Agricultural Council Conference (NWIAC) is August 5-7th, in conjunction with the Fort Hall Festival, at the Holiday Inn in Pocatello.

Interested persons may pre-register through the extension office or at the Holiday Inn on August 5th, from 8-9 a.m. Shoshone-Bannock Tribal members and local agricultural producers may attend at no charge. Registration includes a luncheon Wednesday, break refreshments, and a tour followed by lunch on Friday, August 7th.

They have tailored the conference to address several of the pertinent issues facing both the Tribes and the agricultural sector. Topic highlights include the Farm Bill, Wolf Management, Profitability in Today's Agriculture, Update on the Horse Act, Outlook on Livestock Markets, and much more!

A tentative agenda and registration form is available. Until all speakers and topics are finalized, the agenda is subject to change.

For further information or if you have any questions, please contact Danielle at 478-3777 or Nola at 478-3776.